VOLUME 3 COMMAND

INTEGRATING THE AIR RESERVE COMPONENTS

---

Last Updated: 5 Jun 2013

- The Air Force, under the Total Force construct, has a substantial part of its forces in the Air Reserve Components (ARC), which consists of the Air Force Reserve (AFR) and the Air National Guard (ANG).
  - The ARC provides a strategic reserve and a surge capacity for the Air Force; in some instances, the ARC has unique capabilities not resident within the regular component.
  - The SecDef may make these forces available during the planning process. While they may seamlessly operate alongside the regular Air Force, they are subject to different levels of activation and different degrees of operational control and administrative control. Also, differences in tour length availability pose continuity challenges for a commander, Air Force forces (COMAFFOR), and planners should carefully consider such issues for any category of activation (whether by volunteerism or mobilization).
  - See Annex 3-30, Appendix E for more discussion on ARC organization and accessing ARC forces.
